SINGER/SONGWRITER MIRANDA LAMBERT LANDS GRAMMY NOD FOR BEST FEMALE COUNTRY VOCAL PERFORMANCE

Crazy Ex-Girlfriend Makes Album "Best of" Year End Lists

Nashville, Tenn. (December 6, 2007) - Columbia recording artist Miranda Lambert received a Grammy nomination today for Best Female Country Vocal Performance for "Famous In a Small Town." The track, which she recently performed on Good Morning

America, is from Crazy Ex-Girlfriend, an album many critics are boasting as one of the best of 2007.

Crazy Ex Girlfriend is also #4 on the Top 10 albums of 2007 according to MSN's Year in Review, one of Stylus Magazine's Top 50 albums of 2007, Top 40 Albums of 2007 according to Nuvo and is one of five Top country albums for Playboy Magazine's 2007 Music Poll. Several local and regional publications have confirmed "Best of" lists as well.

Minneapolis Star-Tribune - "This is arguably the best mainstream country album..."

Philadelphia Inquirer - "They don't make mainstream country records much better than this."

Austin American-Statesman - "An early contender for the year's most enjoyable country album."

Orange County Register - "One of the best country albums this year."
